COOKIE POLICY

1. Introduction

Our website uses cookies to distinguish you from other users of our website. This helps us to provide you with a good experience when you browse our website and also allows us to improve our site.

2. What are cookies?

A cookie is a small file of letters and numbers that we store on your browser or the hard drive of your computer if you agree. Cookies contain information that is transferred to your computer's hard drive.

3. Which cookies do we use?

We use the following cookies:

- Strictly necessary cookies. These are cookies that are required for the operation of our website. These essential cookies are always enabled because our website won't work properly without them. They include, for example, cookies that enable you to log into secure areas of our website, use a shopping cart or make use of e-billing services. You can switch off these cookies in your browser settings but you may then not be able to access all or parts of our website.
- Analytical or performance cookies. These allow us to recognise and count the number of visitors and to see how visitors move around our website when they are using it. This helps us to improve the way our website works, for example, by ensuring that users are finding what they are looking for easily. To the extent that we use these cookies to collect aggregated information about visitors of our website (for example details of how many users our website or certain pages), for the purposes of improving it, we may enable these cookies without obtaining consent, but you can always switch off them off using the buttons in section 4 below.
- Functionality cookies. These are used to recognise you when you return to our website. This enables us to personalise our content for you, greet you by name and remember your preferences (for example, your choice of language or region). To the extent that we use these cookies to adapt the way our website appears or functions in line with your preferences, we may enable these cookies without obtaining consent, but you can always switch off them off using the buttons in section 4 below.
- Targeting cookies. These cookies record your visit to our website, the pages you have visited and the links you have followed. We will use this information to make our website and the advertising displayed on it more relevant to your interests. We may also share this information with third parties for this purpose so that they can serve you with relevant advertising on their websites.

Different types of cookies also remain on your device for different periods – for example:

- Transient cookies are deleted once you close your browser. Session cookies, which fall into the category of transient cookies, enable our website to identify different requests from your browser during the same session. Your device can be recognized once you return to our website(s). Session cookies will be deleted once you log out of your account on our website(s) and/or close your browser.

- Persistent cookies expire or get automatically deleted after a set period; the duration differs depending on the specific cookie.

Cookies can also be 'first party', which means they're owned by us, or they can be 'third party', which means that that they're not owned by the website which sets them and that the relevant information may be accessible to third parties. By way of example, to the extent that we use Google Analytics (and where you provide your consent to the placement of the relevant cookies on your device), your information may be accessible to Google. For more information about how Google handles personal information, please see Google's Business data responsibility site here.

You can find more information about the individual cookies we use, the purposes for which we use them and their duration in the 'Cookies List' below.
